

How to Use the Field Trip Reflections Journal

This field trip journal is to help you keep track of the learning excursions you have shared with child or children. This is a simple tool to use. Simply grab a clipboard and printed copy of a page from the journal. Take it along on the field trip. Fill in the prompts. Attach a picture and artifact. File it in a three prong folder or binder. Keep it as a keepsake.

About the printable:

The top section is for recording all of the facts about the field trip including the date, time, location, and the coordinates. This is a fun way to add a little geography to the outing. The coordinates can be found by using a GPS tracker.

The purpose of the field trip helps the student think about the why behind the outing. Are they learning about something related to the field trip at home or school? Is it simply for fun?

The artifact box is where students can tape their entrance tickets or another small tangible item. It

Field trips are educational. The "What do I want learn?" section allows the students to think in advance about what they would like to learn from the field trip.

The most memorable moment section is for recording a highlight from the field trip from the student's perspective.

An interesting fact can be anything that the student finds interesting that is also true.

The photo or illustration box allows the student to draw or add a picture from the field trip.
